DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-5, 7-15, 17 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shoji et al (Japanese Publication Number 2000-248259, herein recited paragraphs are of attached machine translation of 2000-248259).

Shoji et al disclose an infrared absorbing composition comprising (1) phosphoric acid monoester, (2) phosphoric acid diester, (3) copper ion and (4) resin such as polyvinyl butyral, ethylene-vinyl acetate copolymer (Paragraphs 0005-0008 and 0033). Shoji et al also disclose plate such as glass bonded to an adhesive comprising polyvinyl butyral or ethylene-vinyl acetate copolymer and ingredient (1), (2) and (3) mentioned above (Paragraph 0058, 0078 and 0079). Shoji et al disclose products such as windows for building, car, trains etc (Paragraph 0087). The term interlayer in claims 4 and claim 14 bears no patentable weight and considered as an intended use for lamination of glass.

5. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shoji et al (Japanese Publication Number 2000-248259, herein recited paragraphs are of attached machine translation of 2000-248259) in view of Garrett et al (U. S. Patent 6,737,159 B2).

Shoji et al, which has been discussed above in paragraph 4, disclose a window glass for building, car, train etc. However Shoji et al fail to disclose a structure of window glass.

Garrett et al disclose a solar radiation controlling safety glass laminates for windows of building, vehicles etc (Col. 1, lines 15-33). Garrett et al's laminated glass comprises two glass plates bonded together using solar radiation controlling plasticized polyvinyl butyral interlayer.(Example 7). Garrett et al disclose conventional plasticizer used for plasticizing polyvinyl butyral. The conventional plasticizer includes phosphate type plasticizer (Col. 11, line 63 to col. 12, line 13).

Therefore it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of this invention made to utilize disclosure of Garrett et al in the invention of Shoji et al to bond two glass plates using Shoji et al's solar radiation (infrared radiation) absorbing composition to make heat insulating window glass laminate.

No claims are allowed.

6. Receipt of Information Disclosure Statement filed January 31, 2006 is acknowledged. All recited Japanese documents have been considered to the extent of provided their English abstracts.
